Six Families Sue City

Allege Negligence Caused Flooding Of Their Properties

Six local families slapped a $20,915 law suit on the City of Daly City this week, naming two San Francisco construction firms as co-defendants.

Cause of the legal hassle, they charge, was negligent and improper grading of lots near their homes in the 100 block on Frankfort street, which removed natural watershed cover and allowed flash floods last winter to bring down dirt, mud and silt onto their properties.

And Daly City

Defendants in the action are P. Matire and company, the Fay Improvement company, and the City of Daly City.

Daly City became a defendant because it OK'd construction by the Matire company of Mar Vista drive and Edgemar streets in Belle Vista Terrace. Work, allegedly, which contributed to the removal of grass and brush from the neighboring hillside, diverted drainage onto the plaintiffs properties.

Bocci Represents

Represented by Judge-elect Thomas L. Bocci, the plaintiffs and the amount of compensation each asks are:

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Taber, 184 Frankfort street, who want $4100.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Schaumleffel, 172 Frankfort, who want $3300.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dale, 176 Frankfort, who ask $3300.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood H. Arnold, 180 Frankfort, asking $3515.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Morello, 273 Belview avenue, asking $3620.

Mr. and Mrs. Sabin Q. Eastman, 331 Whittier street, who want $3000.

Ask Restraining Order

They want not only damage, but a restraining order against the defendants to prevent further alleged damaging activity.

They charge that the Matire company began grading on the slope above their homes on February 14, 1950, but that the floods caused by this grading did not begin to take their toll until the last six months.

A Superior Court summons was given on Monday of this week, ordering the defendants to appear within 10 days to answer the complaint.

THIS IS THE 100 BLOCK ON FRANKFORT street, flooded last March by torrential rains. Six families on the block have this week filed suit against the city, charging that street construction work denuded the neighboring hills of natural watershed cover, causing the floods that brought mud, soil and a small lake down on their property. Ex-Chief's Son Appointed As Cop

Acting on a request from Daly City Police Chief Roland Petrocchi, the city council appointed two probationary patrolmen to the force Monday.

First choice was the top man on the civil service board of review's eligibility list—James Sunderland, son of W. W. Sunderland, who preceded Petrocchi in the chief's job.

Second appointee was Robert Crooker, 28, of 88 Risel street. Daly City. Crooker's appointment will take effect November 1.

Sunderland, 32, of 11 First avenue, will start his probationary period September 1. A former member of the Marines, he was formerly employed as a patrolman in San Francisco, and as a jailor for the county sheriff's office.

Sunderland, Sr. took a leave of absence from the chief's job in August of 1951 and eventually retired in April, 1952.

Lion's Ask Council's Ear On Parking Proposal

President Hal Willis of the Daly City-Colma Lions club has requested the city council to consider at the next council meeting, Monday, August 25, a proposal to alleviate the parking problem on Mission street.

The Lions' Civic Improvement committee, under Walter Rector, has prepared a plan, says Willis, which will end parking meter trouble at the top-of-the-hill, a serious deterrant to trade, according to many local merchants.

ENCEPHALITIS NO THREAT HERE SAYS HEALTH OFFICIAL

There is no present threat that the dreaded encephalitis disease, which has steadily edged up the county as far as Redwood City, will appear in the Daly City area.

This was the opinion of Dr. H. L. Wynns, in charge of the health division of the county public health department. Dr. Wynns yesterday told THE RECORD:

Appoint Hanrahan To Broadmoor Police Commission; Two Men Seen As Chief

Olson And Ferraris Back Printer For Post

The County Board of Supervisors Tuesday named Claude Hanrahan to the Broadmoor Police Commission. Hanrahan fills the place on the three-man board vacated by the resignation of Patrick C. Patey.

Patey's resignation was in doubt up to the last minute. He originally submitted a letter to the supervisors asking to be relieved of the job, and charging that his fellow commissioners were interfering with efficient operation of the department.

No Comment

But at the commission's last meeting, Tuesday, August 12, he refused to confirm or deny a report that he had asked the supervisors to ignore his resignation.

Hanrahan was present at that meeting in an unofficial capacity, and indicated he would not refuse the post if offered.

Served Before

A Broadmoor printer, Hanrahan has previously served on the commission for six-months, subbing for a former commissioner who left the district.

Tannehill, Savage Only Candidates For Job

Broadmoor's next police chief will be either Officer Don Tannehill or Officer Ray Savage, police commissioner Val Olson told THE RECORD yesterday. Appointment of one or the other is slated for the commission's next meeting.

Olson backed co-commissioner Armondo Ferraris in ruling out the possibility of "bringing in an outsider" to fill the post vacated by ex-Chief Paul Schmidt, who resigned recently.

Tannehill, with the most seniority, is rumored the favorite. Whether or not the new chief will receive more than the $350 per month paid Schmidt has not yet been decided, added Olson.

Schmidt resigned when Olson and Ferraris refused to OK a $50 per month pay hike for him.

Still pending, said Olson, is the audit of the police department funds, which was called for at the commissioners last meeting.

On Tuesday, August 12, the commissioners authorized hiring a CPA to check the books of the Broadmoor Police Boys Club Benefit association, Police Auxiliary and Reserve fund.

A POLICEMAN'S LOT MAY NOT be a happy one, as Gilbert and Sullivan insisted, but you couldn't prove it by this photo of Daly City's police chief, Roland Petrocchi. A native of Daly City and member of the local force for over 10 years, Petrocchi took over as permanent chief earlier this spring. Present ambition: new and larger quarters for his department.

Westlake Assn. Gets Court Order Against By-Laws Violator

Case Scheduled For Next Week In Superior Court

The Westlake Improvement Association has obtained a court order against one violator of its by-laws and is currently filing against another, George Pingry, president of the association, told THE RECORD yesterday.

Without revealing the name of the first by-laws violator to have legal action taken against him, Pingry said:

"Most of the violators are coming around to our point of view, but we've had to get a court order to abate a nuisance against one man, and possibly another will follow."

15 Violators

Last week Pingry revealed that 15 violators of the associations building codes had been tabulated by the groups architectural committee.

Most of the violations, he said, consisted of fences and hedges that did not comply with the code.

"All the attorneys we have talked to say that there is no question that we can enforce these by-laws. Each Westlake resident accepts them as part of his deed when he moves in," said Pingry.

At Superior Court

San Francisco attorney James McCabe, representing the association, said the first violator's case has already been held over once by Superior Court in Redwood City, but that it would definitely appear next week before the court.

"If you talk it over with most of these people," said McCabe, "they'll generally begin to appreciate that the association's by-laws are for their own protection—as well as their neighbor's."

Candy Stripes

"Some of these people who won't cooperate now would probably howl their heads off if the family next door painted their house in red and white candy-stripes," he added.

The first charged violator, said Pingry, refused to take down a fence that was not in compliance with the association's rules.

The second man will be asked to show reason why he has not remedied a similar situation, and a third resident corrected a non-standard fence when notified legal action would be taken.

Never before in its history has the association been forced to go to court to enforce its by-laws.

Sarto Supports Complaint About Marchbanks Park

"I'm in complete accord with Vince Merlo as to the condition of Marchbanks field," said Joseph Sarto, local baseball mentor this week.

Sarto's comment came after Merlo, co-sponsor of the Vince and Fred team, last week complained of the unsatisfactory condition of the diamond at Marchbanks, and said he had been given "the well-known runaround" by city officials while trying to get corrective steps taken.

To San Mateo

Continuing, Sarto reported that he had moved his team to San

'Lovers Lane' Bandit Arraigned

Police Search For Companion Who Escaped Under Fusillade Of Shots

Municipal Judge William J. Sweeney formally arraigned Dick Crump, 25-year-old San Franciscan suspected of being Daly City's "lover's lane bandit," earlier this week on a double charge of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon.

Crump appeared at the arraignment without counsel and was unable to post the required $1000 cash bail. He was turned over to officials from the sheriff's office and is now in the county jail, awaiting trial.

Address Unknown

Reporting late yesterday that Crump had not yet made bail, a sheriff's office representative said the suspected stick-up man wired a party in Utah from the jail, but received in reply: "Addressee unknown."

Police meanwhile continued their search for a companion who escaped Saturday night in a fusillade of shots from pursuing officers of the Daly City force.

Described By Victim

Story of the robbery—which earned its perpetrators no money—was vividly described to police by John Groggan, 21, of 250 Irvington street, Daly City.

Groggan and his 16-year-old girl friend were parked on a gravel road just off Scenic drive in the Crocker hills one minute before midnight when a light was flashed in the car and a voice interrupted them, demanding that they open the car and get out.

Council To Open Bids On Completion Of Center

The Daly City council, at its next regular meeting, Monday, August 25, will call for bids for the completion of work on the Community Center building, City Manager Dan Anderson announced today.

Work yet to be done on the controversial structure includes landscaping, installation of adequate plumbing, and development of the site, Anderson added

COUNCIL WANTS BRUNSWICK WORK SPEEDED UP

The Brogado Paving company hasn't been moving fast enough on the $500,000 job of extending Brunswick street to connect with Hillside boulevard and Wellington avenue. Not fast enough, at any rate, to please the city council.

The council has expressed its dissatisfaction with the progress on the job, and has instructed City Manager Dan Andersen to schedule a meeting with the company and retiring city engineer, Robert A. Klassen.

Andersen reports that the meeting will be held Monday, August 25, immediately following the regular meeting of the council on that date.

The extension has been projected for over three years at this time, but long and bitter legal hassles with H. H. Smith, former owner of the property and ex-mayor of Daly City, has held up actual work until recently.

"We now have a clear title to all the land and slope rights and have notified Brogado Paving," said Andersen, "but no work has been done."

DALY CITY TO RENT POLICE RADIO SERVICE

A tentative agreement has been reached between the Broadmoor police commission and the Daly City council whereby Broadmoor will rent the local police radio call system for $100 a month.

Daly City police will send emergency calls out to the Broadmoor police cars.

It had been proposed that Broadmoor set up its own system, but this was found to be too expensive and not nearly as satisfactory as utilizing the Daly City system.

DRAFT CALL UPPED FOR SEPTEMBER

Twenty-seven men from the north end of the county will be called up for induction September 8 by Local Board 57, it was learned recently.

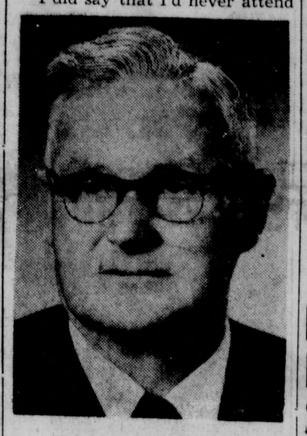
Total draft call for the entire county is 43 men for September. Board 58, serving the south county sector, will call only 16 men.

Last month's call for the entire county was 31 men.

Callan Denies Any Trouble At Meeting Of Supervisors

Supervisor-elect Thomas J. Callan's much publicized visit to the Board of Supervisors this week was "making a mountain out of a molehill," he told THE RECORD today.

"I did say that I'd never attend



Thomas J. Callan

a closed door meeting, and I meant it," said Callan. "Public meetings should definitely be open to the public, not held behind closed doors.

"But that business about me 'stalking out' is a lot of nonsense. I went down there to attend a meeting and see how the board works, so I'll be better prepared to handle my job when I take office in January."

Callan added that he left shortly after his arrival because of a dinner appointment with friends, not because of any argument about his presence at the meeting.

He added that a supervisor asked him why he was there, but denied that there was any altercation between the two.

Two Bikes Stolen Outside Jefferson High School

Two bicycles were stolen Monday from Daniel Whitney, 550 Hillside boulevard, and Arthur Domenichelli, 512 Hillside boulevard.

The pair came out of the gym at Jefferson High school to find their bikes missing. No report of their whereabouts has yet been learned.

Record Crowd Seen For Police Ball Saturday Night

All was in readiness today for the 23rd annual Police Ball this Saturday night at Bay Meadows.

According to Hank Sundermann of the Daly City police, a capacity crowd is expected to attend the ball which features two orchestras.

May Top Record

Sundermann said that returns from the vast ticket mailing undertaken earlier this month have proven satisfactory and it was his hope that current ticket sales would top the record-breaking mark set in 1951.

Phil Bovero and his famous ABC radio and television orchestra with several outstanding vocalists, will be the featured musical attraction of this year's ball. Bovero's 14-piece popular band will provide modern strains for dancing in the clubhouse section of the racetrack.

Intermission Entertainment

Texas Hank and his range riding buckaroos from the panhandle will play ranch style rhythms in the turf club area. Harmonica ace, Rex Dorren, will display his wizardry on the mouth organ during intermission time.

Sundermann added that the ball provides vitally needed financial protection for the widows and orphans of policemen fatally injured in line of duty.

Pitcher, Printer, Policeman

Local Boy Makes Good

"When constabulary duty's to be done, a policeman's lot is not a happy one."

Thus sang Gilbert and Sullivan in one of their more famous operettas, but it is extremely doubtful if their words could be applied to Daly City's police chief, 37-year-old Roland Petrocchi.

Likes His Work

The recently appointed new head of the local force has stuck his finger in many different pies during his life, but finds that law enforcement work has the best flavor of them all.

Born in Daly City in 1915 to Andrea and Zelinda Petrocchi, he has lived in this city all his life and sees no reason to change at this late date.

Early Home

The Petrocchi's residence in those days was on Shakespeare just opposite THE RECORD office, where he worked in later years. He began his education at the Vista Grande school, moved up to Woodrow, and polished off at Jefferson Union High.

A crack pitcher and third baseman while at Jeff, he farmed out to the San Francisco Seals—then in their first year under Lefty O'Doul's managership—as a pitcher for the Salina, Kansas, class C league club. But baseball, he eventually decided, was not his dish. Not, at any rate, as a means of earning a livelihood.

Why Not Printing

Instead, he decided, an intelligent man could do worse than to go to work as a printer; so in due course he joined THE RECORD'S composing room staff.

It takes six years for a printer to complete his apprenticeship and become a journeyman. Petrocchi learned the trade for five and one-half years—then decide to change again. He joined the Daly City police force, which was about half its present size at the time.

Relief Shift

In those days, 1941, a rookie

and the voice snarled, "Do we have to shoot?"

They got out of the car at the threat and saw two men with handkerchiefs over their faces before them. One man covered Groggan and his girl with a gun and told his companion to bind their hands behind them.

Groggan argued with the pair and convinced them it wouldn't be necessary to tie up himself and the girl. The gun-wielder then demanded their money, but Groggan told them he wasn't carrying any and once again convinced them.

Forced To Walk

The hold-up artists then forced their victims to walk north on Scenic road. Groggan saw them scuttle off a moment later in the opposite direction in their car.

Waiting until his assailants were out of sight, Groggan hurried his girl back to his own auto and drove to a nearby service station where he called the Daly City police.

An alarm was broadcast to patrol cars, and Officer John Coleman quickly spotted the two suspects speeding down Scenic way. He passed the alarm to Officer Art Linhares, who was stationed at the lower end of the road and both gave chase.

70 MPH Chase

They chased the car—at speeds of up to 70-miles-per-hour—from Hanover street into Rolph street in San Francisco, then west on Rolph street into Mission, where Sgt. Margot Benedetti joined the race.

Still fleeing, the fugitive car hurtled across Mission onto Alemany, then west on Ottowa, where it was finally corned at a dead-end. Only the driver, Crump, was captured.

Accomplice Escapes

The other man got away at one point in the chase when the car slowed down near a clump of bushes and he dived out. Sgt. Benedetti fired at the fleeing man but he escaped into the bushes.

Crump was questioned by San Francisco police before being remanded to Daly City for the arraignment. He refused to make any statement, but hotly denied knowledge of the attempted hold-up or his alleged accomplice.

No Danger

"I don't think there's any danger in Daly City at all; you have nothing to worry about up there. Daly City's climate is about the same as that of San Francisco, and that type of weather isn't conducive to the disease."

Of the six cases reported earlier in the week from Redwood City, Dr. Wynns said he was "reasonably certain" they are not the virulent type that has scourged the San Joaquin Valley in past weeks.

San Francisco

The only North Peninsula case of the sleeping sickness — which can leave its victims, if they survive, mentally enfeebled—was in San Francisco. The victim proved to have made a recent trip through the valley.

"Two of the Redwood city cases weren't serious enough to warrant hospitalization," said Dr. Wynns. "It seems to be a fairly mild type. I don't think you could consider it a real out-break."

Mateo after 14 years of sponsorship in Daly City solely because facilities at Marchbanks are inadequate for visiting teams.

"I remember how embarrassed I used to be," said Sarto, "when we would host out-of-towners and the locker room was dirty and there was no hot water for showers after the game."

Just Hope

"About all there is to do is just hope that the city will rectify the situation," he added.

Despite the unsatisfactory condition of the field, Sarto earlier this week announced that he is starting a teen-age team in addition to his semipro club. The teen-agers will use Marchbanks as their home field.

Meanwhile, the city Recreation commission has announced that its Tuesday, August 26, meeting will feature a report on eight separate repair operations currently being conducted at the disputed field.

cop worked what is politely called the relief shift—each day brought different hours. One day the newly-uniformed officer would do regular day duty, the next graveyard, the next swing. It was no life for a man who likes regular hours.

By 1946, however, he had worked himself up to his sergeancy, a rank which he held until appointed acting chief on August 28, 1951, to replace Chief W. W. Sunderland, who had taken a leave of absence.

Acting Chief

When Sunderland officially retired in April of this year, Petrocchi stayed at the chief's desk. In a recent civil service examination for the permanent post, he was the only man to take the test, passed and received the appointment.

He remembers a few tight scrapes during his patrolman-sergeant days—such as the Silver Saddle Robbery in '49, when he was caught in a cross-fire between four armed hoodlums and police — but considers good police work to be more a matter of good administration than derring-do.

Wife And Children

He lives, as he has all his life, in Daly City. The address now is 46 Mission circle. With him live his wife, Gloria, and his eight-year-old boy, Ronald. Two girls from his first marriage, Andrea, 12, and Diane, 11, live with their mother.

Now that the city council has given him two new officers, he has shift his immediate desires to new and larger quarters for the force.

In the meantime, there are brunks and lost children, stick-up artists and overtime parkers, all the business of a police department to occupy his attention.

Bertelli will get a chance, perhaps, to retrieve his possessions this Sunday, August 24, when the Veteran firemen host their annual picnic and horseshoe tourney at Flood Park. As a champ horseshoe player, he will also get a crack at the axe, trophy for the tourney winner.

Traffic Signs Are For Your Safety . . . Heed Them!

A sure sign of a driver's maturity is the respect he or she shows for traffic signs and signals, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Patrol Commissioner Clifford E. Peterson said these "signs of life" are the next best thing to having officers personally accompany motorists to help them avoid accidents.

Most drivers suddenly become "mature" and strictly obey all traffic laws when they see a Patrol car, he said. For accident-free driving all the time, traffic signs and signals should have the same effect.

Peterson pointed out that whether they tell motorists to stop, slow down, keep to the right, inform them of the speed limit or simply suggest use of caution, signs and signals are installed for driving safety.

To disregard them is as childish as touching an object labeled "wet paint" and the consequences are often much more serious, he said.

Peterson said that last year in California 232 persons died in accidents as a direct result of ignoring traffic signs.

Failure to heed posted speed limits brought on the indirect but just as violent death of hundreds more, he added.

"A traffic sign or signal won't give you a ticket if you don't obey it," he concluded, "but it may save your life if you do."

BETTER OVERINFLATE

Is it best to overinflate or underinflate automobile tires? This is a question frequently asked of National Automobile Club. Engineers are emphatic on the point that overinflation is much to be preferred.

SASSY: Lovely Janet McFall, 17-year-old Miss San Joaquin, spells out the "where dreams come true" theme of the San Joaquin County Fair, Stockton, featuring horse show, rodeo, forest festival, salute to the lumber and building industry, and eight days of racing.

"Look before you change lanes." A safety slogan for all, according to National Automobile Club. An arm signal although required does not relieve the motorist of the responsibility of making sure it is safe to change his lane before so doing.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

IT'S FUN TO CLEAN YOUR CAR THIS WAY

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

One sure-fire way to be popular with the man of the house is to help him clean the car. And he'll be amazed at your efficiency if you use vacuum cleaner attachments to do a "professional" job on the interior of the car while he struggles with the outside surfaces.

Here's how, step by step, as tested by the General Electric Consumers Institute:

Park the car near an electrical outlet—in the garage, or in the driveway, for instance.

Open the car door and set the vacuum cleaner on the ground about a foot from the side of the car. One extension tube is all you'll need to reach all parts of the car, front and back. And remember to attack from the righthand side; if you approach from the left, you'll be stymied by the steering wheel.

Start with the ceiling, using the upholstery nozzle or utility brush.

The upholstery nozzle will also do for the sides of doors and other upholstered surfaces. Use the crevice tool to clean deep corners of seats.

Surprise the man of the house with your efficiency by getting your vacuum cleaner "into the act" when it's car-cleaning time. Use the upholstery nozzle for the seats and the sides of doors.

The dashboard and back shelf come next. Use the dusting brush here, as well as in the glove compartment and for cleaning out ash trays.

The rug nozzle will do a good job on the back seat floor rug, while the floor and wall brush is best for rubber mats on the front seat floor boards.

And the whole job takes less than an hour.

Plan Post Office Tours For Bay Scouts In Sept.

Postmaster John F. Fixa today announced that the San Francisco Post Office under an educational program outlined by Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson will conduct tours of the Post Office for the Boy Scouts of America, Cub Scouting Service during the month of September 1952.

"The Mail Goes Through" has been selected as the theme for September, the purpose of which is to acquaint Cub Scouts throughout the country with the widespread operations of the U. S. Postal Service.

Scout leaders desiring information regarding tours should call or write the Office of the Postmaster, San Francisco.

HUNT FOR FEMALE THUG CONTINUES

Daly City police and alerted officers of nearby law enforcement departments continued their search for the "gun moll" who robbed at gun point the Tiajuana Pottery shop, 2493 Junipero Serra boulevard, while its terrified owner was held at bay.

An APB (all points bulletin) has been broadcast for the female thug and her non-talking male companion. She is described as being five feet, five inches tall, weighing about 140 pounds and approximately 40 years old.

Silent Companion

Her silent accomplice is about the same age and five or six inches taller. The limited description of the pair is all that Irving Gottes, frightened owner of the store, could remember after the stick-up.

The couple walked into Gottes' shop early last Saturday morning and said they wanted to buy a cheap piece of pottery. The woman gave Gottes a five dollar bill for the purchase, and when he walked into his office to get change from his wallet, she pulled a gun and said, "I'll take that, never mind the pottery."

Gun-Shy

The gun-shy Gottes, who was hospitalized for three months in 1950 when struck by another burglar, stood frozen as the woman's male companion reached over and relieved him of his wallet.

The man then walked out of the store and got into a green sedan parked in front. The woman followed a moment later, saying, "Don't follow me if you want to live."

They were last seen driving south on Junipero Serra boulevard.

San Francisco police believe the pair, accompanied by another woman, stuck up a liquor store on Taraval street July 24.

Nose-First Dive From Bus Sends Man To Hospital

Harry Grossman, 53, of the Westlake Motel, stepped off a bus at the corner of Mission and San Jose at 8:20 o'clock Monday morning and hit the curb—with his nose.

He was taken by police to Junipero Serra hospital for treatment of a cut nose suffered in the mishap.

Grossman's blood, liberally sprinkled on the sidewalk, was the cause of much speculation among later passengers.

Auxiliary Cops To Be Sworn In Soon

Sgt. Dave Hansen of the Daly City police should be a happy man Tuesday, August 26, when Chief Roland Petrocchi swears in 25 Hansen-trained civil defense auxiliary cops.

The first such class here, they are all volunteers and will be given free-time police work to help take routine duties off the regular force.

City Manager Dan Andersen reports that the recently-formed police commission is already working on new uniforms for the group which will differ from those used by regular members of the department.

CHECK OIL FILTER

Before starting a motor tour the oil filter should be checked reminds National Automobile Club. It is more important to have the filter in good working order on a trip than under normal, routine driving conditions. This is because the oil is subjected to higher temperatures for longer than usual periods with the result that impurities in it have an opportunity to do greater harm. A filter check may save repair bills.

THE RECORD RECOMMENDS

As a reminder to you and your elected officials THE RECORD this week inaugurates a civic improvement "box score" dictated by public need.

The right hand column carries the number of days final action has been held up on these issues. We hope this guide will be instrumental in bringing about some of these needed reforms.

	Days Delayed
A coordinated civilian defense organization which would meet at least once a month to discuss disaster problems.	736
A Chamber of Commerce supported by local businessmen to improve the community.	91
Proper transportation facilities for Westlake and Daly City, preferably a privately operated line.	421
Recreation: Park for Westlake area; Completion of the Community Center building; Night lights for Marchbanks park.	261
An end to flagrant use of closed door caucus meetings to carry on the majority of the city's business.	1,430

Library Is A Symptom, Not A Cause

The shocking and saddening fact that Daly City's library has failed to keep up with even the minimum standards for public libraries (see page one of last week's issue of THE RECORD) is symptomatic of a more widespread disease here that must be corrected quickly if the the community is to flourish.

We would classifly this malady as "suburbanitis." The plain fact of the matter is that Daly City has only rarely outgrown the feeling that it is just another district of San Francisco.

Since the reason for this sad misconception has long since faded, the reason for correcting it has grown progressively more necessary. Years ago, when the city's population was small and gathered closely around what is now our central business district, the fallacy that we had little more status than the Marina or the Mission had some justification.

But it most emphatically has that no longer. Daly City proper has grown in the last few years like an atom-bomb plant—as fast as houses could be erected. And, with the addition of new tracts and sectors, our population has swollen beyond an early pioneer's wildest dreams.

But our mental outlook has obviously not kept pace with physical growth. The short-budgeted, under-stocked library is only one of many proofs of that. It is to be hoped that the new library commission recently set up by the city council will correct the situation in that one respect.

But only a change in attitude on the part of all of us will enable the city to grow and prosper the way it can, should and must.

Too Much Talk, Too Little Action

At the present moment, the fluoridation fight in Daly City has settled down—temporarily at least—to something very much like the Korean "police action." There are brief forays and sorties on both sides, but neither camp seems to be making much headway against the other.

And if returning GI's from Korea think there is apathy on the home front about that battle, they have nothing on the fluoridation partisans. The pro-fluoridationists are eager to awaken the public to what they consider one of the greatest and most beneficial health measures of all time.

The anti-fluoridationists, on the other hand, want to awaken the public to what they look upon as a dangerous, subversive and un-constitutional measure. Both camps are extremely partisan and convinced that the people, if properly informed of the facts, will sweep the proposal in—or out—by an overwhelming vote.

It sometimes grows a little tiresome, perhaps, for THE RECORD to carp about apathy on the part of civic officials and many citizens; we've been doing it so long about so many measures (see the box score at top of this column) that it is virtually second nature with us.

Every now and then, though, elected officials and the people who elect them seem to come temporarily to life, and act for a short time at least like citizens in a democracy. So in the hope that eventually this will prove to be one of those times, here is a brief rundown on flouridation to date:

For the measure—Dr. Harold B. Chope, head of San Mateo county's health department. Dr. Chope is nationally known and respected in his field, and has consistently supported fluoridation of water in the county. He maintains that it cuts tooth decay by as much as 60 per cent, particularly in small children.

Also for the measure—the majority of dentists in Daly City are convinced that fluoridation is not only beneficial, but is much needed in this area. One of them, who reports 50 per cent of his practice is among children, said the teeth of small children in Daly City "are terrible."

In addition to these medical and dental authorities, many school officials and members of civic groups with particular interest in children's welfare are behind the move.

Against it are some local citizens and a large, unnamed, unofficial and vociferous nation-wide group. Most outspoken locally is Mrs. Hugo Franzen, head of the Citizen's Committee Against Fluoridation which failed to stop the proposal in San Francisco.

What has been done—A. J. Bodien, superintendent of the Daly City water department has announced that he wants a chemical analysis of the city's water—something that has not been done since before Franklin D. Roosevelt first took office. Part of the proposed test's results will be to show how much natural fluorides are in the water (if any).

City councilman Joseph Verducci told THE RECORD he wants an expert's opinion on the advisability and feasibility of fluoridating the water locally.

That is the sum total of fluoridation in Daly City to date—much brainwork, much planning, much talk. No tests. No experts.

No action.

Why No Post Cards?

Don't laugh at this one because there's a germ of a darn good idea behind it, plus some civic interest—a rare commodity in Daly City these days.

An unidentified post card has long been a favorite way of sending a brief note to a friend or relative, and virtually every city and town in the nation has taken advantage of it as a medium of promoting themselves.

Probably there is no one who wouldn't rather get a picture post card than the common, Post Office variety. A picture, preferably in color, with a few words of description, are often far more interesting to the reader than the usual "Having wonderful time. Wish you were here" type message that accompanies them.

We have no bridges like San Francisco, or skyscrapers like New York, but a good aerial view of Daly City would be only one of the many possibilities.

The cards would have a two-fold purpose. They would be not only a service to residents and visitors, but would be extremely effective in promoting the city—as many other municipalities have learned before.

With those aims in mind, it seems undeniable that the perfect organization to carry out such a plan is a Chamber of Commerce. If the Daly City chamber ever survives its birth pangs—a moot question at the moment—they would do well to take the proposal into serious consideration.

Explosive!

When Ike screamed "foul" over Adlai's White House briefing by Secretary of State Acheson, General Omar Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and others recently, and was immediately invited by President Truman to drop in for the same treatment, and stay to lunch too; he was put to the embarrassment of declining what would have been an order only a few weeks ago.

But he did accept the President's offer of weekly reports on the international situation by the Armys Central Intelligence Agency, which also goes to Governor Stevenson. The reports are described as confidential, and containing restricted and secret material, and are being furnished to the candidates on the theory that this current data will aid them in their utterance on foriegn policy.

General Eisenhower, of course, has been entrusted with the nations top secrets through the years, nor would we consider Governor Stevenson a security risk; but we think it is high-handed of our Commander-in-Chief to present such reports even to the most distinguished civilians who have no official responsibility, are not under oath and have as yet no mandate from the people. If this data is seen by only Ike and Adlai, it will have little value to either. Thus, we wonder if America's military secrets are to be passed around the respective headquarters for the edification of the speechwriters, strategists and hangers-on.

And if candidacy qualifies one for the holy of holies, why withhold this apparently vital political information from aspiring Congressmen, Senators, Governors, Mayors et al? We think both Ike and Adlai would do well to send back those official missives . . . with the seals unbroken. They might cause some chain reactions.

Yes—But Who Pays?

Prime Minister Churchill has announced that Briton is to go on a pay-as-you-go basis to ease her financial strain, no matter whom it squeezes or hurts.

Somehow, that praiseworthy resolution has a familiar ring. If it means again what it has always meant since the war, John Bull will soon be putting the bee on Uncle Sam for another loan—to help him (John Bull) pay his way. That "no matter whom it hurts must refer to the U. S. taxpayers!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Record welcomes any letter on any event of public, or private interest. These letters are published at no expense to the writer. There are just two requirements: the letters must be signed, and must be within the laws of libel. We hope readers will show enough interest in their city to occasionally "sound off;" for the purpose of this column is to give you, the reader, a chance to express an opinion.

Reader Reports On Congressional Hearings On Fluoridation Of Water

767 San Bruno Ave.
San Francisco, Calif.
August 15, 1952

The Record, Editor
Dear Sir:

Few people know much concerning fluoridation. Not the real facts. Ask some of the ardent fluoridators if they knew that Congressional hearings investigated both sides of this controversial subject and they reply "No," they never heard of such hearings.

I will acquaint them with a few facts they should know before continuing to promote and endorse fluoridation.

After Congressman A. L. Miller, M.D., former public health officer for two years of the state of Nebraska, had heard both sides (he was a member of the committee which heard the experts testify), he gave a report in the House of Representatives, March 24, 1952. I quote, "I can say to my colleagues, quite frankly, that until I had the advantage of hearing all the experts on this question, I thought fluorine added to the water supply might be beneficial to everyone. I was misled by the Public Health Service.

"There is no scientific basis for recommending immediate acceptance of the proposals to treat the entire population with fluorides. The mass medication of fluorides is still in the experimental category. . . .

"Experimental work on rats and mice indicate a lessened mental reaction in rats and mice who have had fluorides."

Who wants an impaired and deteriorated brain?

In the hearings the appalling fact was brought out that there is little or no similarity between the natural poison fluorine as found in many water supplies and the chemical poison fluorides, a waste product from the manufacture of aluminum. Do not be deceived on this score. Too often the promoters seek to confuse the issue by misinforming the citizens that both are the same. The real experts testify otherwise.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Hugo Franzen

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Franzen was secretary of the San Francisco Citizen's Committee Against Fluoridation in its unsuccessful fight to stop fluoridation of that city's water supply. (See last week's issue of THE RECORD.)

Community Chest Needs For 1952 Estimated At 29% More Than Last Year

August 20, 1952

Daly City Record
3317 San Jose
Daly City, Calif.

Dear Mr. Bradshaw:

Your invaluable assistance, through your newspaper, in keeping the public informed about the services of the Community Chest of San Mateo County is appreciated very much.

We are going to try and take the "mystery out of the Chest" by a series of articles about the agencies. They will be released to you as they are completed, and we hope you will be able to use them.

Because of the increased need, due to the tremendous population growth and added services of the agencies, plus the addition of six new agencies, headed by the USO, our goal will be about 29 per cent more than was raised last year.

With kindest regards, I am,
Sincerely yours,
Glen O. Smallcomb
President

Keith Gardner . . . OFF THE RECORD

Unrequited love, business failure, alcoholism and a few others of such like are generally considered to be the most pitiful and tragic situations in which a man can find himself.

Friends, believe me, it isn't so. The most heart-rending spectacle our civilization can offer is that of an average, everyday Joe in conflict with the technological advances that have—so the advertisements say—made us the most advanced of all cultures.

Blow By Blow

In support of this thesis, I offer a blow by blow description of the events which transpired yesterday evening in my living room (crying towels may be found in the foyer):

8:15 p.m.—Acting in accordance with the instruction booklet left by the man who installed our TV set, I advanced toward the machine with a firm step, grasped knob A-1 tightly in one hand and twisted until a sharp click informed me that I had turned on the set.

Startled

I then sat back on my haunches to wait for the set to warm up. Sitting thus, I was somewhat startled when—with the screen perfectly dark—a soft, throaty voice came from the set, saying: "You're a wonderful brute, darling, but if my husband finds out he'll kill us."

At precisely the same moment I felt a brief smooth caress on the back of my neck; exactly like that caused by a woman's lips. Considering the fact that I am on fairly good terms with the neighbor's wife, I think I may be excused for a moment's delusion.

I Note Tyrone

My befuddlement ended a second or two later, however, when the voice proved to be addressing someone named Tyrone. My name is not Tyrone, thank God, and vengeful husbands are not my meat. I was actually relieved when the caresser of the back of my neck turned out to be a moth, who was evidently under the impression that I was a wool coat, suitable for hatching eggs.

8:16 p.m.—The screen now came on showing a mechanic demonstrating how you-know-what motor oil cuts sludge. The voice, though, was that of the babe with the dangerous husband. She said with mock anger: "Stop that, you naughty boy!"

Hi Yo . . .

Immediately I twisted the tuning dial to a cowboy program. The hero had just dispatched 12 villians with his trusty shootin' iron and was nuzzling his trusty horse. The voice breathed: "O, you mad, passionate man!"

In a frenzy now I spun the knob like a roulette wheel, passing a toothpaste commercial and a fertilizer discussion. At long last I fetched up on the far side of the dial with what was probably the salvation of my reason.

Mountain Or Molehill

One of Hollywood's more antique matinee idols was nuzzling a gorgeous young thing half his age. I sat back, relaxed, and congratulated myself. Obviously some minor technical defect had caused all the trouble. I had made a mountain out of a molehill.

The figures flickered silently on the screen. I stretched out a leisurely hand and twisted the sound knob. The dialogue was:

"Clean out that gooey motor of yours with Glom, the only . . ."

"No thanks, ma'am. Me and my hoss will be a moseyin' along." "Are your teeth tattle-tale gray? Use . . ."

"However, pulverized ox manure is undoubtedly . . ."

Ridgely Cummings . . . HOLLYWOOD

The lesson for today, children, is about pigs and history and the proposition that a police state is inevitable.

What I mean to say is, I have an excellent book on the desk here beside me and it paints a gloomy picture of impending peril. The author is George Orwell and the book is "1984," an arbitrary but euphonious figure derived by adding 35 years to the date when Orwell wrote it.

This is the sort of book best discussed on a rainy day around the first of the month when the bills have just been delivered. If it can be arranged for one of the children to have the measles and the other to fall out of a tree in the backvard, then conditions are ideal. However, at the moment the bills are a few weeks away, the sun is shining, the world looks bright, and it will not be easy to do justice to Orwell's dark view of our society.

Unfortunately George Orwell is dead now. I say unfortunately because his premature passing was not only a loss to his family and personal friends but the deprivation of a keen and independent mind to all of us.

In "The Animal Farm" Orwell wrote a hilarious and at the same time poignant satire on the Stalin-Trotsky feud, representing them both as pigs. Stalin was a moody, dogmatic, bossy pig named Napoleon, and Trotsky was an energetic, talkative, idealistic and screwball sort of pig named Snowball.

Snowball led the horses, cows, sheep and chickens in a successful revolution against the unjust master of the farm. After that Snowball was the big pig for quite a while and ran Animal Farm according to his own whims, making the animals sacrifice present comfor for future gains.

Napoleon was the leader of the loyal opposition but he was always out voted, especially by the sheep, who were completely swaved by Snowball's oratory. The gruff old pig bided his time and meanwhile took some young pups from their mother and reared them to be faithful to him alone.

When the showdown came between Snowball and Napoleon, the pups, grown to be ferocious bloodhounds, chased Snowball off the farm and terrorized the other animals. Napoleon became the dictator, abolishing voting as a waste of time. Under his rule the animals sacrificed both present comfort and hope for the future.

This was of course Orwell's way of revealing the method by which Joe Stalin seized power for himself while secretary of the ruling party and chased Trotsky into exile.

Snowball ran to a neighboring farm and whenever anything went wrong on Animal Farm, Napoleon explained that Snowball had crept through the fences at night and sabotaged the works. Gradually Napoleon rewrote history so that Snowball was robbed of credit for all his accomplishments as an innovator. He became an object of hate and fear to his former comrades and Snowballism became a cussword.

"Animal Farm" created quite a stir in literary and political circles when it was printed six years ago but it was not until he wrote "1984" that Orwell was revealed as a political satirist who can actually be compared in bitterness and insight with Jonathan Swift. If he were alive today George Orwell probably would be another Bernard Shaw, a man whose pronouncements on current events would be continually sought after. Although not the professional humorist that Shaw was, his markedly original insights would command a world-wide hearing.

The falsification of history played an important but still minor role in "Animal Farm." In "1984" this falsification was basic to the events recounted and to the police state of Ingsoc where the hero and heroine lived and loved and suffered.

A political treatise disguised as a love story, "1984" is one of the most important books available today. It has something in it for everyone—passionate love scenes for the sex-starved, brutal torture scenes for those whose sadistic appetites have been stimulated by a diet of murder mysteries and hard-boiled detective tales, gentle humor and sharp characterizations for those who like literature to reflect life.

But most of all it has a warning to serious citizens about the direction in which governments are travelling today.

I put the book on the desk here so I could select a few choice quotes when I reached this point. But now that I am looking through the pages, I see long, eloquent passages which deserve to be widely read but which would take up too much room here. So instead of quoting directly I'll paraphrase a few passages and condense a long argument into a few lines.

For example, on equality, Orwell writes that the developent of machine production has made human equality technically possible. Even though it is still necessary for people to do different kinds of work, according to their capabilities, it is no longer necessary for them to live at different social or economic levels.

Human equality, now possible, becomes no longer an ideal to be striven for, but, to those in power, a danger to be averted. In more primitive times, when a just and peaceful society was in fact not possible, equality had been easy to believe in.

But within the last 30 years political thought has turned authoritarian. Today we have imprisonment without trial, public executions, torture to extract confessions, forced labor by war prisoners and other evidence of the abandonment of the dream of brotherhood and equality.

Since the dream was abandoned, some way had to be discovered to use up the products of the machine age without raising the general standard of living. This seemed to be a tough problem for if the surplus was dumped into the sea or gathered into huge piles and burned, as happened with coffee and potatoes, the hungry and poorly clad would object.

But the problem of holding down living standards was not insurmountable. Continual and indecisive war was the solution. Orwell was quite specific about this and one can't help thinking about the current headlines as one reads the following:

"To understand the nature of the present war—for in spite of the regrouping which occurs every few years, it is always the same war—one must realize in the first place that it is impossible for it to be decisive."

Orwell predicts that within a few decades we may have Thought Police to keep us in line as good slaves, a Ministry of Truth devoted to grinding out lies and falsifying the past, a Ministry of Love devoted to brutalizing the body and twisting the mind of those who fail to conform, a Ministry of Plenty which bends its energy toward cutting down rations and reducing living standards, and a system of Double-think by which we will deceive ourselves into believing the result is natural, rational and even desirable.

It is a sad and cruel world he forsees, much worse than the one in Animal Farm where all animals are equal but some are more equal than others, and I have said enough about if for the moment. Now I'm going out and get some of that good sun. Class dismissed.

Lay Off Those Condors, They're Nearly Extinct

Three North American birds are on the list of thirteen birds listed as vanishing species by the International Union for the Protection of Nature.

These are the California condor, the Eskimo curlew and the North American whooping crane.

Other threatened species are the Arabian ostrich, Hawaiian goose, New Caledonian kagou, Indian pink-headed duck, Australian ground parakeet, Laysan duck, Marianas mallard, Cuban ivory-billed woodpecker, Bermuda petrel and Marianas megapode.

Variety Club-Sponsored Foundation Aids Blind Youngsters In County

Once the complete prisoners of their affliction, 211 Northern California pre-school age children, some of them from the Daly City area, are winning their way to victory over the tragic handicap of blindness, it was learned today.

The youngsters are fighting for the right to live normal, happy lives with the help of a highly successful program of home training provided for them by the Blind Babies Foundation, organized and financed by the Variety club of Northern California.

Many In County

H. Neal East, president of the foundation, which maintains headquarters in San Francisco, said there are 15 blind children in the San Mateo county area alone who receive the unique home instruction service which the foundation offers free of charge to all preschool age blind children and their parents.

Reporting on the work of the foundation here and throughout Northern California, East invited parents of all blind children to avail themselves of the foundation's home training program. The organization's home instructor in this region is Mrs. Vivian Dahl, whose offices are at 111 Sutter treet, San Francisco. Her telephone number is EXbrook 2-1867.

Trained Personnel

The foundation president said that prior to the establishment of the foundation, blind children all too frequently were left to the care of untrained persons or hidden away by unduly sensitive parents with little opportunity of becoming self-reliant.

The Foundation was established three years ago by the Variety Club whose membership is drawn from the motion picture and entertainment industry. Always among the first to respond to humanitarian appeals, members of the club swung into action when the plight of three neglected blind children was brought to their attention.

U. C. Virus Laboratory Opening Scheduled

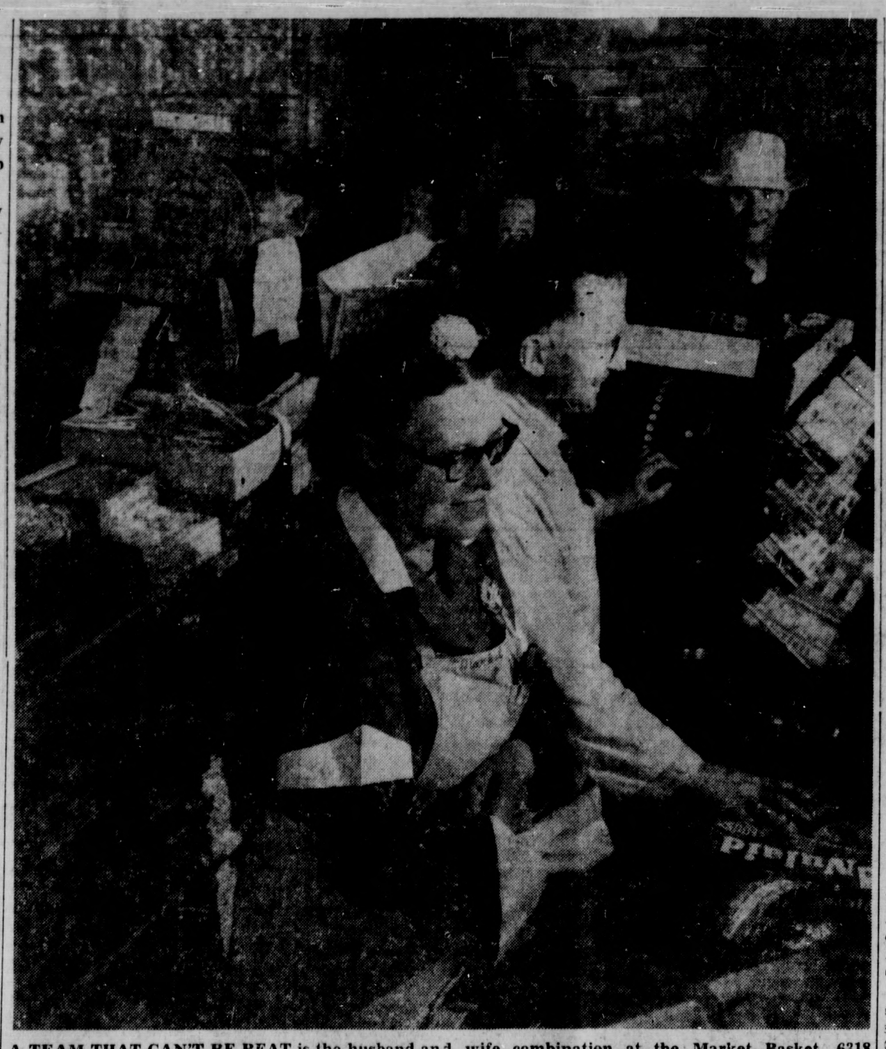
BERKELEY — Opening ceremonies for the new two-million-dollar Biochemistry and Virus Laboratory on the Berkeley campus of the University of California will be marked by a three-day program in which internationally renowned scientists will participate.

Dr. Wendell Stanley, Nobel Laureate and director of the laboratory, announced that the opening will be held October 9, 10, and 11. Conducted tours of the unique laboratory will be available for all interested persons on the afternoon of October 9 and morning of October 11.

Speakers at a dinner meeting will include Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Alan Waterman, director of the National Scierce Foundation, and Sir MacFarlane Burnet, of the Hall Institute, Australia.

A library in the laboratory dedicated to the late great pioneering biochemist, Emil Fischer, will be dedicated on October 9. Participants will include Drs. du Vigneaud, Stanley, and H. O. L. Fischer, son of the early biochemist and a member of the laboratory staff.

A Pacific Slope Regional Biochemical Conference is being planned by Dr. D. M. Greenberg, professor of biochemistry, for October 11, in conjunction with the opening ceremonies.



A TEAM THAT CAN'T BE BEAT is the husband and wife combination at the Market Basket, 6318 Mission street. While young in spirit, the pair have a good many years of grocery experience behind them. Meet smiling Tony Burkart and his ever-loving frau, Catherine.

Chest May Act As Blood Reservoir

LOS ANGELES—The chest may act as a "blood reservoir," from which other parts of the body draw extra blood as the need arises.

This is indicated in a study at the University of California at Los Angeles Atomic Energy Project by Dr. Alvin F. Lewis, pathology section chief.

The study has shown that normally 40 per cent of the blood is present in the chest. The other 60 per cent is circulating through the body, meeting normal needs.

This reservoir may be tapped for extra blood when another part of the body is injured or otherwise in pain. Routine functions that demand extra blood, such as digestion, also draw from the reservoir.

The reservoir isn't adequate to cope with all emergency needs, however. Painful injuries may draw so much blood from the reservoir that not enough is left for other body functions. This condition is known as shock.

In one phase of the study it was noted that the volume of blood in the "chest reservoir" was reduced 90 per cent when the chest was opened. This was due to the partial collapse of lungs and blood vessels.

Although these observations were made with rabbits, they would generally be true of human brings, Dr. Lewis thinks. Such information may be valuable in treatment of shock and in developing new surgical techniques, he adds.

STATE P.T.A. HEAD 'SATISFIED' WITH SCHOOL MEASURE

Satisfaction with the $185,000,000 school bond measure approved by the special session of the state legislature, and with the restricted provisions to control its spending was today voiced by Mrs. P. D. Bevil, president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"Although we do not consider multi-use rooms an extravagance," Mrs. Bevil said, "we are nevertheless pleased with the restrictions placed upon them by legislators, since this will permit very much needed additional classrooms.

Larger Bond

"School districts," she added, "may still build multi-use rooms with state moneys if they wish to bond themselves a maximum of 40 years instead of the present 30 years."

"We think it a fine thing that the bill contains certain restrictions," the PTA head continued, "so that an already burdened tax public may be assured there will be no extravagance in the program and that every effort will be made to make the money go as far as possible.

Urge Local Support

"Locally,," she said, "we urge PTAs to support their school boards in this type of economy planning."

The school measure, which will be placed on the November ballot, will continue state aid to school districts for building purposes. The California PTA was one of the groups requesting the special session because surveys revealed that many areas with excessive pupil growth are seriously in need of additional building.

Not only are children in these areas crowded in regular school rooms, but many are unsatisfactorily placed in basements, garages, and other inadequate housing. The California Congress has favored multi-use rooms, particularly in communities where these are especially advantageous, and has been in favor of leaving this decision with local school districts.

U. C. Man Discovers Seaweed Antibiotic

PHILADELPHIA — The discovery of antibiotic activity in an extract of seaweed was reported here today by Dr. Robertson Pratt, professor of pharmacognosy in the University of California College of Pharmacy.

Dr. Pratt told the American Pharmaceutical Association that he found the antibiotic effect in an extract of the red marine alga, Rhodomela larix.

In laboratory tests, the extract weakly inhibited several species of microorganisms that cause disease.

The scientist said that the structure of the antibiotic is not yet known. Work is now progressing on this problem.

Dr. Pratt emphasized that there is no way to tell at present whether the seaweed antibiotic will ever be useful in fighting disease. However, the finding presents a valuable lead.

Husband And Wife Team Make Market Basket A Delightful Place To Shop

Who says a husband and wife don't make good business partners?

They should drop into the Market Basket, 6318 Mission street, where for the past years Tony Burkart and his lovely wife, Catherine, have been graciously serving the public. While young in spirit, the couple have run up about 25 years of experience in the retail grocery trade. Here is one case where the wife knows almost as much about business as the husband.

Possibly of more importance to the customers is the excellent service afforded by the market and the fine meat department.

"Here we sell nationally known brands for less," Burkart said today. "I believe our shelf prices are the most economical in town, and not just during sales periods but the week around."

While not the largest market in the city, the size of the Market Basket has proven a blessing to women seeking to make a one-stop quick shopping tour. Shelves are so arranged that a woman may do all her shopping in no more than 10 minutes without walking more than a few yards.

"Convenience is our motto," Catherine is fond of telling customers. "We have gone all out to make this the easiest and most thrifty market in town in which to shop."

One service dearly appreciated by all is the free delivery which eliminates the necessity of carrying home large bundles of groceries. It also makes it possible to do all the shopping during the day, and not at night.

However, for the convenience of those who get home from work at a later hour, Market Basket is open until 7 p.m. every night; and on Fridays Tony and Catherine hold down the fort until 9 p.m.

Why not drop in and meet Tony, Catherine and all the boys of the Market Basket today?

Lake Merced Sea Scouts Leave For Ten Day Trip

Seven Lake Merced Sea Scouts were among the 27 who left August 14 for a 10-day trip to the popular Emerald Bay Scout Camp on Catalina Island.

One of the nation's top aquatic camps, Emerald Bay, is the regular summer facility of a Southern California Scout Council which is made available to other Councils for a brief period every season.

Overlooking a beautiful natural harbor, it offers the Scouts an opportunity for all types of aquatic experiences. Boys receive training in swimmnig and lifesaving, and learn construction and handling of all types of boats, as well as the use of diving gear. Sea craft of all descriptions including everything from glass bottom boats to yachts are at their disposal.

The camp was founded in 1938, and was operated as a Coast Guard Training Station during the war years, which resulted in the addition of many up-to-date facilities now enjoyed by the Scouts.

Those making the trip were: George Davidson, 2010 24th avenue, of Troop 143; Don Geddes, 437 Font boulevard; George Schattle, 235 Font boulevard; Dave Bechtel, 131 Eastwood drive; John Vitalich, 164 Eastwood drive; Jack Kaplan, 745 Sutter street; and Stanley Smith, 598 Magellan street, of Troop 98.

Leader of the trip was H. E. Dike of Lathrop, Calif.

Daly City Fireman Gets Special CD Indoctrination

Scys Now Is Time To Prepare For Attack

Wayne Alexander, Daly City fireman, recently attended a one-week course at the Western Training Center, operated by the Federal Civil Defense administration at St. Mary's college, California. He is the first person from this area to attend the center, which opened last October.

Alexander reports that he was deeply impressed with the courses offered at the center. Along with ten other trainees, he was taught methods of defense against the kind of warfare American civilians can expect in case of war—atomic and incendiary bombing, and gas and biological warfare against people, livestock, and crops.

The Western Training Center is one of two schools of its kind in the United States.

In addition to background material on the need for and organization of civil defense, Alexander was introduced to new methods of fire fighting and protection against gas attacks.

Alexander says that he is now convinced that Americans, especially in critical target areas, must do all they can to prepare themselves for attack.

Optimistic Note Seen In Report On "Battle To Defeat Polio"

The battle to defeat polio is begining to make headway, it was revealed in the 14th Annual Report of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, released a few days ago.

Despite the increasing prevalence of the disease, the report struck an optimistic note. Basil O'Connor, National Foundation president, pointed out that during 1951 there had been "substantial accomplishments in virus studies, new test tube victories that presage the coming of a direct and specific attack upon paralytic polio in man himself."

For the first time, 1951 saw laboratory findings tested in the field. Pilot field tests of gamma globulin—a substance which may prevent paralysis in polio—took place in Provo, Utah. The results encouraged full-scale tests just completed in Houston, Texas, and Sioux City, Iowa.

The 1951 Annual Report disclosed that there were 28,668 new polio patients reported over the country—the fourth consecutive year of widespread polio epidemics. And from all indications, 1952 will be the fifth.

The 3,000 chapters of the National Foundation met the emergency by paying $20,904,000 in March of Dimes money to finance care for those polio patients unable to meet their full medical bills. Also, trained personnel and vital emergency equipment were rushed to epidemic areas to help provide needed medical care.

A detailed break-down showing how the National Foundation spent money received in the 1951 March of Dimes is contained in the Annual Report. Seventy percent went directly to finance patient care; 18 percent was spent for research and education; 8 percent went for medical department and chapter services, state offices and public imformation. Administration costs were slightly over 4 percent.

BUTTONS ADD COSTUME LOOK

BLACK MAGIC, in the form of coal-colored buttons, adds a look of costume coquetry to this handsome ensemble of textured fabric. Three large, square-shaped B.G.E. Originales close the new twin-pointed Spencer jacket with dramatic emphasis. Matching buttons in a diminutive size are repeated as decorative motif on the over-sized hatpin that adorns the coordinated draped turban. (ANS)

Every year Schroder times his vacation to coincide with the fair. Although he has won many prizes for previous entries, this year has been his most successful to date.

A native of Holland, Schroder is an authority on bulbs and grows and hybridizes dahlias as a hobby.

Teen-Age Dance May Be Slated For September 6th

By Joe Ballarin
Recreation Supervisor

Into the office this week two young men quietly peeked, then cautiously asked if this was the Recreation ofifce. Hearing a response of "Yes," the two meekly inquired if a teen-age dance for a "back to school" activity might be arranged. There then followed minutes of discussion, during which evolved the names of the two intrepids as being Jack Reynolds as spoken for by his lieutenant, Ray Lippert. It also was released for all to know, that twenty-five teenagers were already signed on a petition fostering the dance.

It is a good idea! But it is up to you. Do you want one? If you do please drop a post card to the Recreation Department, c/o city hall, with your name and phone number, or phone PL. 5-0477.

The tentative date is set for September 6, but the type of dance, music, decorations, are up to you. Do you want it?

A full report on the recent VFW Auxiliary encampment at Los Angeles was presented to the members of Lake Merced auxiliary No. 9921 at the group's last meeting by Mrs. Anita Woods, official delegate to the conclave.

One of the major highlights of the convention was the presentation by National President Mrs. Herschel Griffith of $30,000 for cancer research to the Children's hospital in Oakland and to Los Angeles County hospital.

Also at the convention, presentation of the first annual Al Jolson award was made to famed comedian Boy Hope for his services to Armed Forces personnel during World War II and the Korean War.

Mrs. Woods reported that the following officers were elected at the encampment:

Mrs. George L. Holm, national president; Mrs. Ellie H. Schill, national senior vice president; Mrs. Thomas F. Holy, national junior vice president; Mrs. Eleanor Grant Rigby, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Sherman Olson, chaplain; and Mrs. Ruby Stroh, guard.

Next year the national encampment will be held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Marchbanks Playground

By Leslie Linhares and Frank Ingersoll
Playground Directors

Take me out to the ball game, take me out to the crowds—and we did. On Saturday, August 9, a group of about 25 young baseball followers were guests of Seals Stadium.

Once seated in the bleachers, there was a general rush for hot dogs, peanuts, Cokes and anything else of the eatable quality. Their appetites filled, the eager fans proceeded to take in the surroundings. For many, this was their first venture into the sports world. But the "oldtimers" quickly filled in any gaps.

Spellbound

The windup of the pitcher brought the group to attention. From this moment on Don Weckerle, Phil Liberti, Linda and Leo McArdle, Ron and Leroy Davis, Ricky and Danny Craig and Joe Stagnaro were in wrapped attention.

Two of the leather spheres were driven in our direction, but none was retrieved. Phil Fair was privileged to be presented with a ball by his cousin, a policeman on duty. Needless to say, he went home the envy of the crowd.

These young stars saw the Seals defeat the Padres 6-4. The group drifted home spouting baseball names and terminology and full of their new found knowledge.

Tournaments

This was tournament week at Marchbanks. As scheduled, the ever-popular pool tournament was held. The numerous entrants required a limited sign-up with promise of the coming partnership contest as compensation.

Both boys and girls entered the tourney. Although the girls didn't win, they did show their skill by reaching the semi-finals. Many of the best players were eliminated in the early stages, by sinking the eight ball.

These dejected losers were Bob Bailey, Bob Garner, Allen Anthony, Gordon Tydingco, Kenny Day and Woody Gaumond. With grim appearances they vow to make a comeback in this week's games.

King Jones

The final outcome saw Frank Mecchi outshoot Bill Magee, Bill Jones defeat Sharon Lynch, and to finish the game Jones put out Mecchi. Bill Jones was proclaimed new champion. All hail! King Jonesy.

In this same week a new checker game was discovered. Old and new faces came to enter the race. Each was determined that this was "his day." Jane Gruenwald, Frank Vlahovich, George Claus, Anthony Stagnaro, David Cresta, Marguerite Cripps and Joe Rosset were soon to discover it wasn't

In This Corner . . .

Little Bob Galli came over all the hurdles to suffer defeat at the hands of ex-boy-of-the-week Bill Magee. Magee conceded that it had been a tough game but will challenge anyone to try and take away his crown. He will have to defend his position very soon.

Ping pong was also on the fire this week, but it is still in action. The winners will be announced next week.

Girl of the Week

One of the park's next door neighbors has been chosen for honors this week. Thirteen year old Barbara Nelson was elected because of her all around sportsmanship and assistance to the directors.

Barbara's blond hair can be seen flying around the baseball diamond or her brown eyes intent on a game of pool. Often as not, you will see her, paddle in hand, crushing her opponents in a game of ping pong, another of her favorite sports.

Qualifications

This young lady will certainly have adequate background for her chosen vocation of wife and mother. She fits in all these sports in between care of four younger brothers and sisters.

Marchbanks has evidence of her wifely ability. Just let anyone start to clean up. Barbara is the first to pipe up with "let me help." We directors wish to thank Miss Barbara Nelson for her kind assistance. She possesses the true qualities of girl of the week.

Boy of the Week

Marchbanks playground is proud to announce the winner of this week's "Boy of the Week" contest. He is bright-eyed Kenny Day, as Irish as the name indicates. Kenny's favorite activity at the playground is ping pong, although he enjoys pool and stationary almost as well.

Kenny is especially noted around Marchbanks for his outstanding sportsmanship. To use his own words Kenny says, "I like to win but most of all I just like to play." This is characteristic of Kenny's attitude at the playground.

Win, lose, or draw, Kenny has a broad Irish grin on his face. Keep up the good work Kenny and accept our congratulations as this week's boy of the week.

Surprise, Surprise

Marchbanks surprised everyone in the Class C division of the all-city ping pong tournament by taking second place in the boys event and first and second place in the girls competition.

Joe Stagnaro, a comparative newcomer to the ping pong game, did extremely well in his first tournament, losing only to class C champion Ron Kalinin. The girls class C became an all-Rasmussen final as Cathy Rasmussen defeated her younger sister, Turpy, for the title.

Jeff Monopolizes

The A and B classes were monopolized by boys and girls attending Jeff Hi. By way of taking preparation for the coming boxing tournament to be held on August 20 and 22, Marchbanks showed a series of boxing films last Monday.

Highlights of the Louis-Baer, Louis-Conn, Louis-Walcott, Baer-Galento, Tunney-Carpentier, and Louis-Godoy fights were particularly interesting to the boys who attended the showing.

Feature Film

The feature film of the day showed Pat Valentino and former heavy weight king Ezzard Charles in actual training for their heavyweight title fight, held at the Cow Palace three years ago. From this film the boys learned the tremendous importance of conditioning.

Marchbanks playground wishes to thank E. Cardellini of Cardellini Plumbing for furnishing the films and equipment necessary for this showing.

Edgewood Playground

By Lorraine Cady

Edgewood's basketball team is scheduled to play a competitive game with the team from Lincoln Playground. The game is scheduled to be played at the Edgewood basketball court. Dale Fambrini is the captain of Edgewood's team.

Thursday, the tiny-tots from Edgewood are making a trip to the zoo. Paul and Jay Levin, Karen Falk, Susan Del Costello, Kathy Brownhill, Betty Budner, Michael Steele and Sally and Doris Seigart are a few of those who are planning to attend.

Our tetherball tournament commenced Monday. Leading competitors are Joan Malloy and Sally Seigart. There will be prizes for the winners.

Edgewood is planning another scavenger hunt next week and a fun party the following week.

A new activity has been installed at Edgewood. The children now enjoy story-telling each morning.

Jefferson High Playground

By Marge Erickson and L. H. Reese

Last week Jefferson high school playground was the host for the annual ping pong tournaments. The first to be held was the Boys C Class. Ron Kalinin was champion of this group. Joe Stagnaro was runner up.

In the Boys B Class, Vince Leonetti was the winner of the blue ribbon for first place with Don Miller winning the red ribbon for second place.

More Winners

The Boys A Group was won by Bob Bridges, with Larry Kennedy second. In the Senior Men's Group, Ron Bourdon was awarded the trophy for first place. Rich Watso was second place winner in this group.

In the girls division Cathy Rasmussen and her sister placed first, and second respectively in the Class C Group. Donna Shulder was awarded the trophy for placing first in the Women's Class, Joan Jokson placed second.

Pool Popular

The pool table has been set up again. It is popular with all ages. If time permits a tournament will be conducted later in the month.

This week tournaments will be held in checkers, archery and horseshoes. Results will be announced next week.

Plans are being made for the Annual Crafts and Talent Show to be held next Wednesday.

Westlake Playground

By A. Bishop
Playground Director

Last Wednesday we had a very successful party. After playing various games, the children had refreshments. Thanks to Mrs. Lillian Numan, Mrs. Calander and Mrs. Way for their wonderful assistance. Everyone had lots of fun.

Tournaments are in progress for checkers, pick-up-sticks, and ping pong. Pick-up-sticks—those still playing are Skipper Smith, Molly Bernard, Sandy Leland, Carol Ann Gurshman, Terry Leland and Stevie Leland. Checkers—Richard Hurley, David Bosberry, Donald Bosberry, Tommy Asaro, Rennie Bozzinia and Cheryl McKenney.

Recently the teen-agers enjoyed spatter work. Those participating were: Judy Mollison, Kenneth and Joyce Averall, and Sandra Enlobe. We certainly appreciate Sandra's constant help in crafts. Also Mrs. Leland and Mrs. Thomas were very gracious in offering their time Tuesday and Friday.

We are enjoying crafts Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and also story hour every afternoon.

Lincoln Playground

By John Parina

Highlights of this last week's program at Lincoln was the Basketball speed-shooting contest. Winner was Gerry Ennis, with runner-up Bob Rider. A turn-out of 12 went to the free S. F. Seals baseball game; among those who went were Don Weckerley, Linda McArdle and her brother Leo and others.

Planned this coming week is a Chinese checkers tournament, with ten entries so far.

Arts and Crafts

Vista Grande, Jefferson and Crocker Elem. Schools
By Eleanore Hughes

All craft centers are arranging separate previews of arts and crafts, and will hold open house this week, preceding the annual craft exhibition to be held at the high school cafeteria the evening of August 20, at 7 p.m.

Groups will bring back to centers their best work. Instructors will select the best example of all age groups to represent the center at the main show. "Master craftsmen" are now being chosen to demonstrate various crafts that have been taught in the summer.

Creative Work Stressed

The aim throughout the season has been to stress the creative, introducing the techniques and process to the individual with demonstration, and then letting the boy or girl interpret their own ideas. Many gratifying results have been developed. Exciting ideas have been "born on the spot."

The groups and instructors will welcome visitors to each center where they can watch the craftsmen and women actually at work. As each setting is different some of you readers might be glad to go on tour of all the art centers.

Inside Look

You will see how materials and tools are transported from center to center and how equipment and rooms have to be adopted for project accomplishment.

Westlake school center, under the direction of Mrs. Bishop, held open house on Friday, August 15. Crocker Elementary school held their open house on Thursday morning from 10:30 to 12 a.m., and in the afternoon from 2:30 to 4 p.m., on August 14.

Vista Grande's "at home" was from 10:30 to 12 p.m. on Friday morning. The three centers have been under the direction of Eleanor Hughes, assisted by Muriele Pabst.

Annual Exhibition

This year the over-all plan of the annual Craft Show will be based on the separate units of show by each center. Committees are being formed at each center for assisting with arrangements and setting up for the different groups.

Mr. Elman Rose, announces that ribbons will be awarded for each best class or craft. Judges will be instructors in the past summer. The boys and girls invite all parents and friends to attend the craft shows.

Playground Fashion Shows

Big event at all three crafts centers were the "Fashion Shows" held Thursday and Friday at Crocker, Vista Grande and Jefferson schools. All were different, as each locale offered a challenge to committees to make and adapt their show to individual groups.

Crocker school, perhaps, had the most interesting setting as the group moved out of doors, placing chairs in a hollow square at the foot of the main doorway. Music was of selected records played on a recorder.

Invitations

The preceding Tuesday, invitations made of three dimensional dolls were made by morning groups. Thursday morning, older girls, under Mrs. Pabst, made coral and delft blue crepe paper leis for first place winners among the girls. AVERAGE AMERICAN FAMILY SPENDS MORE THAN IT EARNS, SAYS POLL

The average American family spends more than it earns.

This statement is the result of a recent survey by the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, who polled the spending habits of 10,813 families in 91 cities of all sizes.

The results of this monster poll show that the average American family paid seven per cent of its total income to the tax collector and had $4300 left to blow.

It then proceeded not only to blow the $4300, but about $400 more besides. The extra four hundred bucks was accounted for by windfalls such as inheritances and gifts, digging into the savings account—and going into debt.

It should not be assumed, however, that all that cash was blown in on night clubs and loose living. The money was spent somewhat in the following manner:

For food and alcoholic beverages, 30 per cent; for housing and cost of utilities, 15 per cent; for big purchases (autos, TV, etc.), 11 per cent; for clothing, 12 per cent; for medical care, five per cent; recreation, reading and education, six per cent; insurance, 4.5 per cent; and four per cent for gifts and charitable contributions.

The other 16.5 per cent went for miscellaneous purposes.

So if you're living beyond your means, relax. It just means that you're an average American.

Edward J. Reilly To Head Stevenson-Sparkman Clubs

Edward J. Reilly, San Mateo city councilman and Democratic presidential elector for the ninth congressional district, was this week named coordinator of the Stevenson-Sparkman clubs in San Mateo county by state leaders from their headquarters in the Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

Reilly immediately called a meeting for Friday evening at his home, 2815 Hacienda street, San Mateo for those interested in starting new clubs. He appointed Jerry Joroslow as publicity director for the drive.

"The Stevenson-Sparkman clubs are being set up on an independent non-partisan basis," Reilly stated. "Any ten persons, whether Democratic or Republican, can form or join a club which will be in charge of its own activities. The goal in San Mateo county is one club in every precinct."

Before accepting the appointment, Reilly pointed out that he had obtained the approval of the San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee. He indicated he intended to work closely with Frank Rose, county chairman; other committee officials and members; and Harold F. Taggart, Democratic nominee for Congress from the county.

Pfc. Ed Gigli Is Serving In Korea

Pfc. Edward E. Gigli, nephew of Frank Gigli, 6842 Mission street, Daly City, is serving in Korea with the 62nd Engineer Construction Battalion.

His unit recently completed a permanent high-level bridge across the Imjin river two days before the first bad storm of the Korean rainy season.

The span, which was under construction for four months, is now playing an important role in the supply of frontline troops. Several other bridges over the river have been washed out by floods.

Gigli, who entered the Army in December, 1950, is serving in Headquarters and Service Company.

He is a veteran of 14 months Korean service.

L. Herbert Harris Heads Eisenhower-Nixon Campaign

The appointment of L. Herbert Harris as San Mateo county general chairman for the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign was announced today by John W. Dinkelspiel, Atherton City Judge and Vice-Chairman of the Eisenhower-Nixon Northern California committee.

Dinkelspiel said that Harris had been selected to head the county GOP presidential campaign here by Chester R. McPhee, San Francisco supervisor, and chairman of the Northern California Eisenhower-Nixon group.

Harris, who has been active in civic affairs in the county for many years, is a former mayor of Burlingame and presently vice-chairman of that city's planning commission.

He is currently completing his 19th year as a member of the county Parks and Recreation commission. He served as chairman of this group for 9 years.

Harris is well acquainted with the Republican vice-presidential nominee, Senator Richard Nixon, having been chairman of the 5th township committee during his senatorial campaign in 1950.

In addition to his civic duties, Harris is a former president of the Burlingame Chamber of Commerce and a past commander of American Legion Post 82. He twice headed Congressman Jack Anderson's campaign committee in the Burlingame area.

Harris has conducted his own insurance business in Burlingame for the past 23 years. He is a member of the San Mateo County Insurance Agents Association.

In assuming the county chairmanship of the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign, Harris said that it will be his first duty to contact civic leaders in all sections of the county to start plans for the setting up of active workers organizations in every township and rural area.

Due to his wide acquaintance and experience in county political matters, Harris' appointment was being regarded with extreme favor by local political leaders.

The double studs (c) are nailed together with 10-penny nails spaced 16 inches and staggered as shown. Studs alongside the opening (d) are nailed into the end of the sole plate with two 10-penny nails. Note that studs supporting the lintel do not rest on sole plate but on subfloor and joists.

Daly City, Colma Blacked Out By Auto Accident

The lower end of Daly City and parts of Colma were blacked out for nearly four hours early Saturday morning when a car swung out of control and downed a P G and E power pole at the corner of Mission and San Pedro road.

Police were forced to divert traffic east on Market and south on County back to the El Camino, due to the hazard of "hot" lines on Mission.

Cause of all the commotion was a young sailor, Donald Aycock, 20 years old, of the USS Manchester, who was seriously injured in the collision.

Driving south on Mission street, Aycock struck the power pole at 2:30 a.m., totally demolishing the car he was driving.

He was taken to Junipero Serra hospital for treatment of concussion, rib injuries, and lacerations about the face and eyes, then turned over to the care of Navy doctors.

County GOP Seeks Precinct Workers For Coming Election

A county-wide drive seeking precinct workers to aid in the campaign for election of Republican candidates this November was underway this week by the county Republican precinct committee, under the chairmanship of Spencer Greaves.

Greaves said that his organization needs the active support of all county residents who are willing to devote their time and effort to elect Eisenhower, Nixon and Younger this fall.

Every Effort Needed

"We must make every effort immediately," Greaves said, "to see that all GOP party members are registered before the deadline in September."

"To do this job," he said, "we must find hundreds of volunteers who can assist with phone calls, addressing and headquarters work."

Large Corps

Greaves pointed out that it is the plan of his committee to set up a vast active precinct corps of Republican-minded residents who will contact citizens in their neighborhoods.

"The precinct workers corps," Greaves said, "will be the pivoting point around which the entire fall campaign will revolve."

Support Necessary

"Their importance in regard to the success of the Republican party in November is inestimable."

He said that those interested in joining the precinct workers committee should either contact the chairmen in their area or phone Republican Headquarters in San Mateo (DIamond 4-0488).

Following are the Republican precinct and co-chairmen for this area:

FLYING SAUCERS NOT FROM MARS SAYS UC SAVANT

BERKELEY—There is no evidence to support the idea that the phenomena described as "flying saucers" are of extra-terrestial origin.

This was the opinion expressed here Tuesday at the meeting of the Western Amateur Astronomers' convention by Dr. Otto Struve, internationally noted professor of astronomy at the University of California.

Meteorites

Dr. Struve said that the "green fireball" type of objects are undoubtedly ordinary meteorites.

The shining objects, or "lights," that have been observed must be explained in terms of some ordinary physical phenomenon, either produced artificially by man or explainable in terms of ordinary laws of physics, the scientist said. One possible explanation is temperature inversion in the case of ordinary visible light.

Earth Alone

Dr. Struve said the idea that the "saucers" are directed by beings from another world must be discounted. He pointed out that within the solar system the earth is the only planet capable of supporting intelligent forms of life.

If planets like the earth, capable of supporting intelligent life, do exist in other star systems, the chances are they would be at least 50,00 light years away (one light year is equal to nearly 6,000 billion miles). The beings on such a planet, if they exist and if they had adequate instruments for detecting the light from the earth's sun, would receive such light emitted by the sun 50,000 years ago.

Neanderthal

If such beings had any knowledge of human beings on the earth, they would be aware now of the type of human beings that populated the earth at the time of the Neanderthal man, Dr. Struve said.

"Chances are that they would be completely disinterested in what the Neanderthal man was doing or thinking," he added.

Knowledge is Power

1. DO WIVES EXPECT TOO MUCH OF THEIR HUSBANDS?
WIN $10,000
2. ARE PRIZE CONTESTS ON THE UP-AND-UP?
3. WHICH HOBBIES ARE BEST FOR RETIRED PERSONS?

(1) Jane Whitbread and Vivian Cadden don't think so. They have some advice for the confused husband in their book, "The Intelligent Man's Guide to Women." The wife, they suggest, wants you to make conversation with her, tell her what happened at the office and let her in on what you are thinking about. She doesn't expect you to peel potatoes, but she would like you to take over the children when you get home. Then, once in a while she would like to get away from the house and the kids.

(2) They have to be. The way Zenn Kaufman and Lester Cone, Jr., recite the routine of professional prize contest judges, it's highly unlikely that a contest will be a phony. In the first place, their book, "Successful Prize Contests," states, there's a federal law which requires that contest entries actually be opened, read, and evaluated. The winning entry cannot be picked from a hat (the way some were in past years).

Most big contest sponsors employ professional contest judges. They know how foolish the sponsor will look if the prize goes to an extremely poor entry. Then too, a postoffice inspector may walk into the sponsor's office any time and ask embarrassing questions about his judging methods.

(3) "Be sure," advises Dr. George H. Preston, "that your chosen activity suits your physical condition as it is now and as it seems likely to be for the next several years."

In his book "Should I Retire?" he checks off some of the hobbies which retired persons enjoy. "Remember," he cautions, "to choose an activity which you can give up at any time without serious loss."

Drawing, painting, writing, composing music, choir or quartet singing—all can be developed into rewarding retirement activities. "Church work offers the widest range, the most absorbing interest, and the greatest comfort. Some people with little faith can cultivate what they have and find it profitable."

Chrysler To Exhibit New C-200 Model At California State Fair

As a special feature of Chrysler Corporation's "New Worlds in Engineering" exhibit at the California State Fair, Chrysler will present the C-200, the striking new experimental convertible.

"New Worlds in Engineering" opens August 28 and runs through September 7 in the Governor's Hall at the California State Fair, Sacramento, California.

A companion of Chrysler's K-310 and European in its influence, the C-200 is a further experiment to explore the blending of sports car styling with practical American automobile design and engineering.

The C-200 convertivle was conceived and designed in the corporation's Detroit styling studios. A Chrysler Chassis and Chrysler "FirePower" V-8 engine were shipped to Turin, Italy, where Ghia, the famous custom body builder, executed the body and assembly of the automobile.

The C-200 is light green and black in color with a folding top of black fabric. The long low lines of the convertible, which stands less than five feet from the pavement to the top of its windshield, are accentuated by fully-exposed wire wheels and a long hood line.

The spare tire, carried inside the large rear deck compartment, lifts easily upward and out to the rear with the aid of a spring-loaded mechanism.

"The whole design reflects a high degree of unity," said James C. Zeder, Chrsyler Corporation vice-president and director of Engineering and Research. "This unity is achieved through flowing lines and careful integration of components."

"Chrysler designers have avoided throwing practical considerations to the winds merely to achieve fantastic styling for styling's sake."

Changes Made In Soc. Security For War Veterans

Edward J. Foley, manager of the San Mateo Social Security Office, announces recent changes in Old Age and Survivors Insurance with respect to persons who had active service in World War II and since then.

The amended law allows social security wage credits of $160 for each month of active military or naval service after July 24, 1947. This provision is simply an extension of the one which already gives social security wage credits to servicemen of World War II. It applies to service in the armed forces up to January 1, 1954.

Or advantage to the survivors of deceased service people is a provision in the amended law extending the time for claiming a lumpsum death payment. This applies to servicemen who die abroad and are later returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Survivors who pay the burial expenses may now claim reimbursement up to two years after the reburial instead of two years after the serviceman's death.

Credits for military service are granted at the time a claim for benefits is filed. No action is necessary by veterans at this time, therefore.

Persons having questions on these new features of the Social Security Act should contact the office at 517 E. 4th Avenue, San Mateo.

Free Insurance For National Guard

National Guardsmen and members of other military reserve units who go on active duty now have the immediate benefit of several U. S. insurance and indemnity rights—even if they are engaged only in two-week summer training tours, Floyd D. Granger, Veterans Service Officer of San Mateo County, pointed out today.

Federal indemnity and insurance laws entitle reservists to automatic free $10,000 indemnity coverage during the tour of duty, and the privilege of reinstating government term insurance within 120 days after service ends, if the term policy should lapse during the active duty period.

Granger stressed the fact that $10,000 free indemnity coverage exists only for the actual period of active duty if the reservist's tour is less than 30 days long. If he is on active duty for 30 days or more, indemnity coverage continues for 120 days after his tour ends.

Reservists whose govt. term insurance expires while they are on active duty training for 14 days or longer can renew their term policies within 120 days after separation if they pay their premiums and show evidence of good health, the service office said.

In the case of reservists who waive their government term life insurance premiums while on active duty training for 14 days or more, the Veterans Administration has held the policy is automatically renewable for five years if it expires during the tour of duty.

Granger said full information on government life insurance is available to servicemen and veterans at the Veterans Service Office, 517 Marshall Street in Redwood City (directly in back of the Courthouse).

SYL'S SERVICEMEN TOP VINCE AND FRED NINE IN SUNDAY TILT HERE

Vince and Fred's nine continued their stormy ways Sunday at Marchbanks park, but unfortunately the storm seemed to be blowing their way instead of the reverse.

To make a long story longer, they met Syl's Service at 2 p.m. and dropped a real heartbreaker, 3-2.

Malinoff

Malinoff took the mound and held the Sylmen to a mere five hits out of 25 times around.

The local nine took their ups 24 times and picked up seven hits, but failed to cash in on enough of them.

Leading Hitter

Center fielder Domecus led the hitting with one run and two hits, with third baseman Galente running him a close second with one and one. Patterson, on the second sack, garnered two hits but failed to score, as did catcher Krohn.

This makes it two wins, four losses for the Vince and Fred team in Northern California Managers Association AA play.

PIGEON SEASON OPENS; AH, SQUAB ON TOAST!

Federal regulations for hunting doves and pigeons in California during the 1952 seasons have been announced by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service.

White-winged dove hunters in Imperial county will be given an extra 15 days over the 1951 season to conform with the mourning dove season in the rest of the state. All dove seasons in California extend from September 1 to 30, but white-wings may be taken only in Imperial county.

The daily bag and possession limit is 10 doves, single or in the aggregate of both species. Shooting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset, except on September 1, when shooting begins at noon.

Shooting hours for pigeons during the entire season are between one-half hour before sunrise and one-half hour after sunset.

State and federal regulations prohibiting an unplugged gun remain in effect. All hunters must possess a state hunting license.

DON'T RACE MOTOR

Racing the engine while the car is standing is a practice that has been condemned since the days of early motor cars. It is, however, a practice that National Automobile Club reports persists even at the present time when engines are of such high speeds that racing them is doubly harmful. Motorists probably would be more careful in this respect if they realized that the tremendous energy thus generated must be dissipated by the engine itself, and that the usual way of using the forces thus created is in wear.

SPORTSMAN'S CALENDAR

The Department of Fish and Game reminds California sportsmen of the following general regulations which apply to current hunting and fishing.

The safe driver will drive at no greater speed than the posted limit and always in consideration of traffic and weather.

California's 1952 sugar beet crop has been estimated at 2,270,000 tons.

SARTO STARTS NEW TEEN-AGE TEAM

Juniors Will Begin Play Next Sunday At Marchbanks

Joseph Sarto, local baseball impresario who moved his team to San Mateo last month after 14 years in Daly City, yesterday told THE RECORD he is starting a teen-age team which will operate out of Marchbanks park beginning next Sunday.

To be known as Sarto Juniors, the new club will consist, for the most part, of San Francisco high school youths. Explaining this, Sarto reported that Peninsula Athletic League rules forbid local high school athletes from playing on pain of losing their school eligibility.

San Franciscans

San Francisco youths, on the other hand, can play outside ball until the first game of their inter-school games begins.

The independent squad will consist of approximately 15 youngsters, with uniforms and equipment furnished by Sarto.

They will begin play Sunday, August 31, at 2 p.m. on Marchbanks field; opponent is as yet undecided.

Regulars Roll

Meanwhile, the regular Sarto semipro club has been operating at Fitzgerald field in San Mateo with the same success it enjoyed while still in Daly City.

At last Sunday's game, the Sartomen steamrollered Fred's Club of San Francisco 10-3. Jumping into the lead 2-1 in the first frame, the Sarto nine added singles in the second and third then broke the tilt wide open with a five-run scoring spree in the sixth.

Tito Hurls

Tito Sarto, on the mound, held the Fred club to seven hits throughout the game, fanned three and walked six, but it was the free-swinging of Len Costa, third baseman, and his teammates that snowed the Fredmen.

Costa rapped out a double and two singles to lead the Sarto hitting lineup, with Ted Welp and Ben Parodi, respectively shortstop and catcher, close behind with a double and single each in three trips.

Hot Rodders Hope For New Record At National Meet

The nation's biggest amateur auto classic will open Monday, August 25, with more than 400 hot rods streaking for new world speed records at the Bonneville (Utah) National Speed Trials.

More than 1,000 spectators are expected to be on hand to watch the streamliners hurtle across the glassy salt with a goal of 300 miles per hour at this fourth annual meet.

From 37 States

The event is co-sponsored by the Southern California Timing Association and Hot Rod Magazine.

Cars from 37 states(representing the ingenuity and accomplishments of America's young engineers, will be pitted against time along the six mile course.

Radical new designs will be put to test along with super fuels and many engine developments, according to Ray Brown, SCTA president. Bonneville has become America's new automotive proving ground, with Detroit engineers following it closely.

Standard Engines

A total of 41 classes of competition are open. All engines are standard production, with unlimited modifications. Strict safety measures are enforced to preserve Bonneville's perfect safety record and hot rodders' reputation as the safest drivers in the world.

"Bonneville National Speed Trials give America's newest and fastest growing sport a place in the sun," Brown declared.

PLANES, FLARES, GRENADES USED TO PROTECT DUCKS

There's a small war being waged this week in the lower San Joaquin Valley.

Principals are hundreds of thousands of ducks, a score of state and federal ground troops, and dreaded botulism, the unseen enemy.

An air force of three planes flies erratic herding runs to keep water-seeking ducks away from the potential death traps of Tulare lake, Kings county, and Buena Vista lake, Kern county.

Flares and Grenades

Ground forces, headed by Merton N. Rosen, bacteriologist of the California Department of Fish and Game, are firing flares, rifle grenades and fireworks to keep the waterfowl moving. Automatic revolving lights and an aircraft motor-driven skimmer boat imported from Oklahoma by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service are reinforcing the line.

Since their flooding last winter for the first time in 11 years, the lakes have been watched by waterfowl specialists for signs of botulism, the duck-killing disease responsible for a quarter-million waterfowl deaths in the same area in 1941.

Decayed Vegetation

Decaying vegetation on the flooded lake bottoms has created conditions similiar to those of 1941, Rosen revealed.

The first south-bound flight of ducks arrived on August 6, and five days later the conservation agencies started the all-out operation to keep the birds on the wing. Landing on the warm, stagnant waters could mean death for the one-to-two-million ducks expected on the two lakes by the end of the month.

Rosen reported that duck rescue operations during the last epizootic saved only two per cent of the birds at a cost of $30,000. No rescue work will be attempted this year, he said, as all efforts will be concentrated on preventing the ducks from landing on the shallow waters.

SHASTA LAKE GETS NEW BASS PLANTINGS

The many limit catches of largemouth black bass scored this year in Shasta lake may be followed by catches of smallmouth bass in 1954, according to the California Department of Fish and Game.

The occasion for optimism is the announcement of a second planting this year of 5,000 smallmouth fingerlings in the huge reservoir. The fish were raised at the Central Valleys hatchery, near Sacramento, and transported nearly 200 miles by aerated tank truck.

Earl D. Leitritz, chief of inland fisheries, reported that the two varieties of bass get along well together. Both will thrive as long as sufficient forage fish are available.

Bertetta, Goldkuhl Return From Wilds Laden With Fish

Local Men Bring Back Over 300 Trout Here

A vacation fishing trip into the wild Rubicon River country near Echo Lake Springs paid off for some well-known Daly City men to the tune of nearly 300 trout of all description.

Fred Bertetta, 10 Wilshire court, Daly City, former city councilman and local Community Chest head, his son, Fred Jr. and Ed Goldkuhl, 98 Belmont drive, were the fortunate fishermen.

Party Of Seven

Part of a party of seven, they took a 14-horse pack train from Lake Tahoe's Emerald bay into the wilderness country.

Their catch included golden, rainbow, and eastern brook trout and a cross between rainbow and golden. They ate fried fish for breakfast, cold fried fish for lunch and fried fish for dinner.

Took Everything

"They were biting on everything," said one of the party. "They took worms, salmon eggs, flies, spinners and baited spinners. Nobody had any trouble catching his limit—and they were good-sized fish, too. Few were under 8 or 10 inches."

Goldkuhl not only brought back his share of fish, but burdened the pack horse with a collection of minerals and botanical specimens.

Seventeen Dams To Aid California Trout Fishermen

Horse-Bettors Money To Finance Projects

A total of 70 miles of trout streams will be improved for both fish and fishermen and more than 3,300 acre-feet of new lake waters impounded this summer in the most ambitious habitat improvement program yet undertaken by the California Department of Fish and Game.

Construction of seventeen stream flow maintenance dams will be under way this year in the El Dorado, Stanislaus and Tahoe National forests. They will be financed by the Wildlife Conservation Board with its share of state pari-mutuel proceeds.

Native Rock

The relatively-inexpensive "check" dams are constructed of native rock to conform to Forest Service regulations against unsightly man-made improvements. The dams store water in high elevation lakes and maintain a year-round flow in streams below.

Adjutable flow dams in the El Dorado Forest will improve more than 40 miles of stream and impound an additional 1,040 acre-feet of water. Slated for early completion are dams on Smith and Lyons lakes on the South Fork of Silver creek; Winnemucca lake on Woods creek; Round, Dardanelles and Showers lakes on the Upper Truckee river; and Gilmore lake on Glen Alpine creek.

Larger Lakes

Tahoe National Forest improvements include creation of about 1,200 additional acre-feet on Big Downey, Lower Loch Leven, Maria, Lower West, and Upper West lakes.

The Emigrant Basin area of Stanislaus Forest will benefit by improvement of 30 miles of streams and 1,078 acre-feet of new storage on lower Highland lake, North Fork of the Mokelumne river; Bigelow lake, East Fork of Cherry creek; and Lower Buck lake on the West Fork of Cherry creek.

The State Division of Water Resources is conducting additional surveys of future dam sites to aid in the long-term stream improvement program of the Department of Fish and Game.

City-Wide Horseshoe Tournament Highlights Summer Recreation Play

By Joe Ballarin
Recreation Supervisor

From seven till eight-thirty in the evening, certain intrepid adults were very serious concerning the matter of an iron stake and its proximity to forged iron shoes. This situation prevailed Tuesday through Friday, and who could not appreciate the fun involved, when eight men play the game called horseshoes.

In the singles men's division, Mike Orlich, Don Fitzgerald, Lawrence Kennedy, Sr., and Marty Stroubel competed. Marty lost to Mike 50-25, 20-28, in two out of three games of 50 points each. Then Lawrence lost to Don 51-34 and 51-46. In the playoff, Mike and Don threw ringer on ringer with the latter winning the first game, and Mike winning the second and third game. Thus it was M. Orlich who won a very good looking gold trophy cup as champion horseshoe ringer in the city-wide tourney.

In the doubles division, the above three split into pairs with Lawrence Kennedy and Mike Orlich teaming, and Don Fitzgerald with Karl Steigleder joining talents. Two young men from Brisbane named Don Delbon and Larry Blanchard took on the Don-Karl Team and did fairly well, though they lost their first and third games, thus leaving Orlich and Kennedy to throw the irons.

Fantastic Match

This in many ways was a fantastic match of four experts. It was a matter of uncommon bad luck when the pitch was not a ringer. Having four ringers on the same peg was not an oddity, although topping another's ringer nullifies score of first ringer. Many throws were in need of a measure stick either for the official six-inches for scoring, or hooking for a ringer.

There were only two games played in this championship playoff but they were too close for comfort. The first game was 52-49 and the second was 51-47. And the winning team? Mike Orlich and Lawrence Kennedy. Yes, M. Orlich received a second trophy and likewise did L. Kennedy.

Congratulations to all three men who won a total of four cups.

Another Kind of Tournament

Marchbanks became the Mecca for all young horseshoe lovers last Wednesday and Thursday.

In the 9 to 11-year-old class husky Paul Tapia eliminated Marcus Glover in the semi-finals and then went on to defeat Joe Stagnaro for the city championship. The semi-final match between Marcus and Paul was easily the most exciting of the entire tournament. Paul, who was behind 20-18, threw a ringer with his last pitch to win the match 21 to 20.

Ken Geiseker, the city's class A checker champion, bested Don Rossi in the class B division to win his second city title in the space of two days. Although he is only 13, Ken was probably the most outstanding player of the tournament.

In the 14-18 year old class competition was extremely stiff. Every match was won by a very narrow margin.

In the opening round Charlie Bridges defeated Bill Jones; Bob Bailey defeated Woody Grumond, Lon Pike defeated Leon Edwards, and Bernard Milleron defeated Larry Kennedy. The fact that Larry Kennedy and Woody Grumond, two teen-age horseshoe experts, were beaten in the first round is some indication of the keen competition in this division.

In the semi-finals Bob Bailey bested Charlie Bridges, while Donald Pike disposed of Bernie Milleron. At this writing the championship match between Pike and Bailey had not taken place as yet.
